DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. The objection to claim 10 has been overcome by applicant's amendment.

Specification

2. The previous objection to the specification based on improper incorporation by reference was made in error, and has been withdrawn. The foreign publications listed are prior art, and are not meant to be incorporated as part of the disclosure.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Preston 6,196,911 in view of Breivogel et al, 5,547,417, as set forth in the Office action mailed 02 August 2004. Further, regarding claim 10, as '417 teaches that the adjusters are independently adjustable, any of the segments of "417 inherently can be higher, or lower, than any other segment. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have provided '911 with the independently adjustable means of '417, to make any of the segments of '911 higher or lower than the other segments, to adjust for variations in the pad surface. Regarding claim 11, please refer to the previous actions rejection of claim 1.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 02 February 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues "Specifically, Applicants respectfully assert that the threaded shanks 236 of '417 do not serve to adjust differences in height of abrasive grain units arranged on a dressing face of a rotatable base, as recited in independent Claim 1. Rather, as discussed above, Applicants respectfully assert that '417 states that the distance which the tips of the threaded shanks 236 extend from the conditioning block 222 is adjusted to vary a depth of the groove formed in the polishing pad 204 by the tips of the threaded shanks 236." The examiner fails to understand how, in adjusting the shanks to vary a depth of groove, the adjusters are not also serving to adjust the difference in height with respect to the dressing face between reference planes of the respective abrasive grain units, the reference planes each being defined by ends of the abrasive grains in the corresponding abrasive grain units." As the threaded shanks do not also adjust the conditioning block surface, but only the distance between the dressing block surface and the tip of the shank, it is the examiner's position that '911, as modified by '417, makes obvious applicant's claimed invention. That applicant has another reason for adjusting the height of the abrasive units is moot, as the fact that applicant has recognized another advantage which would flow naturally from following the suggestion of the prior art cannot be the basis for patentability when the differences would otherwise be obvious. See Ex parte Obiaya, 227 USPQ 58, 60 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1985).

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
